

VERDUN'S MAYOR STAYS IN CELLAR

BRIDEGROOM FINDS FUNCTIONARY, AFTER SEARCH, BUT LOSES BRIDE

(By Associated Press.)

VERDUN, Apr. 24.—The mayor of Verdun spent the early days of the bombardment in the cellars of the town hall, where he conducted official business as usual, undeterred by the roar of heavy guns and the noise of falling masonry. The mayor was assisted by seven of the municipal officials and the chief customs agent did the cooking for the party.

The mayors favorite story of those trying days is an incident of a would-be bridegroom and his wedding feast. "It was on February 26," says the Mayor, "that a railway worker who has been mobilized in the Vosges came to us in the town hall cellar while the bombardment was proceeding at its highest pitch.

"Well, my friend," I asked, "what can we do for you?"

"I have come to get married," he replied.

"Married!" I asked in amazement, looking out of a grating at a cloud of dust just thrown up by a small shell.

"Certainly," he went on. "The bans have been published, the date fixed for today and I have obtained permission from the military authorities to get married. But I cannot find my fiancée."

"We made inquiries and learned that the young woman had fled with the rest of the population. The future husband brought a fine supply of provisions and wine for the wedding feast. As the shells continued to fall we prevailed upon him to remain with us for three days while we shared all his good things with us."

MEDICAL CENSUS THE LATEST ORDER

ALL PHYSICIANS IN ENGLAND, REGARDLESS OF AGE, ASKED TO REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Apr. 24.—All medical men throughout the country, regardless of age, are being asked to enroll themselves to meet "an urgent national need." The work of enrollment is being conducted by the medical war committees in England, Scotland and Ireland.

For military purposes the service age of doctors is up to 45, but medical men beyond that age can give their services to home hospitals and therefore they, as well as doctors of military age, are being enrolled. The idea of making a complete enrollment is not only to ensure a satisfactory medical service for the army, but also to safeguard the needs of the civil population. In some districts, there has recently been a great scarcity of doctors, due mainly to enlistments.

The reports of the committees on the British medical service in the war zone state that it is "very efficient." In none of the main theaters of the war has there been any lack of high surgical and medical skill. Recently there have been complaints about the service in Mesopotamia, but the shortcomings in this district were already being remedied when the complaints came to public attention.

Each war center of surgical work is in charge of a leading specialist, who obtains all the assistance that he asks for and can utilize. In France, the wounded soldiers are quickly treated at the front hospitals, and then rushed to England for further attention. The transport and other machinery between the front clearing stations and the great hospitals in England has been perfected until it works almost automatically.

MONEY WASTED BY BRITISH OFFICIALS

THE NEWSPAPERS REMIND THE GOVERNMENT OF EXTRAVAGANCE IN PRINTING

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Apr. 24.—Newspapers which have been hard hit by the government restrictions on the importation of paper and pulp, are calling attention to certain departments of the government where they claim there is enormous waste of paper.

"Probably the country needs no reminder of the fact," remarks the Daily Mail, "that in the extravagant use of paper the state is in a very exposed glass house." The paper then takes up various departments to show that tons of paper are wasted every year in the production of government publications.

"Huge blue books," it adds, "are produced at enormous expense. The Royal commission on the treatment of sewage, which sat for years, furnished blue books which weighed forty pounds, contained 5,293 pages, and were printed at a cost of 50,000 pounds—about nine pounds ($45) a page.

"It is clear that the government have only to set their own house in order to secure a very considerable saving in the consumption of paper."
